down a law forbidding the manufacture, and regulating the sale of liquor in that State. In both cases the great body of the Republican party voted on the prevailing side. This is the best possible evidence that prohibition can never be made a party question while parties continue to be divided on the one unsettled question which has disturbed the repose of the Nation for over with the civilization of the age and the laws of the land-when his vote shall be protected by public opinion and made safe for society by education-then the rule of the majority will prevail, and a republican form of government be maintained. This result is the aspiration of all real Republicans. Until this can be attained it will be in vain for any lesser question to demand a settlement. In this country, where the theory is that all questions are to be settled at the ballot-box, the absolute certainty that a question can be so settled, and that the ballot-box will truly tell how the voters stand is of the first importance. Owing to the desperate resistance of the Bourbon element of the South to the new order of things resulting from the abolition of slavery by war, the ballot-box does not now report the will of the majority. Republican government is therefore, for the time being suspended in a portion of the States, and is constantly menaced in the Nation, There are Prohibitionists and anti-Prohibitionists who are in favor of a complete restoration of majority rule. It is the duty of the friends of a republican form of government to vote together for the overthrow of the Bourbon faction, and, while so engaged, to bear and forbear on the minor question. As well measure oil in a sieve as appeal to a ballotbox which is in the hands of jugglers who will not let it tell its true story.

In North Carolina the existence of an honest and earnest element in the Republican ranks in favor of prohibition was caught at by the Bourbon Democracy in the legislature as affording a chance to recruit their own party. They framed a law, to be submitted to a vote of the people in 1881, to prohibit the manufacture of liquor. It also regulated the sale, but made it very easy. The law did not suit the Prohibitionists, but they supported it for what it did contain which they approved. It was defeated by one hundred and sixteen thousand majority at the polls, with the ballot-boxes in the hands of its Bourbon authors. That time the will of the majority was ascertained. The Democratic managers found that in attempting to divide the Republican party they had divided their own. Many of their followers came out of the campaign determined never again to cooperate with the Bourbon party. This became so apparent that the question of a liberal alliance between them and the Republicans was soon agitated. By the anti-Prohibition Republicans this was encouraged. By many others it was watched with a desire to see the best thing done, as circumstances should develop. By some Prohibitionists it was looked upon with distrust, by others with hostility. The new recruits were an unknown quantity, and their opponents said they were but a few. The Republicans who were opposed to the alliance were also an unknown quantity, and their opponents said they were but a few. On the 14th of June the Republican Bate convention of North Carolina was held. Its delegates had been chosen after more than a year of prohibition agita.

sion of the advisability of a coalition. There was no snap judgment—no evasion of the issue. The result was a unanimous indorsement by the Republican State convention of the liberal policy, and of the candidates representing it. The party did not abandon or impair its organization. It did not even amalgamate it with the Liberal organization beyond the present State campaign, It recognized the Liberals, who had raised the standard of revolt against Bourbon moss-back misrule, as worthy political co-workers in behalf of home rule, honest ballot-boxes, free schools, and old-fashioned national patriotism, and left the future to take care of itself. It appointed a State Central Committee to act for the party hereafter. The Liberals have also a State committee.

The duty of all who love the Republican cause is to slay its enemy. That enemy is the Bourbon Democratic organization-which is but the surviving and revengeful brother of Slavery, pursuing a vendetta against Freedom. Is it a time for petty disputes as to what men did in 1880 for and against Republican aspirants for the Presidency? Is it a time for Republicans to complain because brave men, who had never been anything but Democrats, came together in convention June 7, and defied the party they deemed no longer worthy of their support, without waiting for any assurance of a coalition? Is it a cause for offense to any Republican that these new allies of ours named our own favorite as their candidate for Congressman-atlarge-Oliver Dockery, the only man talked of among Republicans as a candidate? Was it not a generous and a kindly demonstration? Was it not met with a cordial and hearty response at our State Convention?

It only remains now for every Republican to rise above personal considerations and deal his best blows to the enemy. No man can justify himself in mer can have The Republican mailed to holding back because his advice was not them by leaving their address in the taken as to the best way of hitching up the team. Nor can he make a good appearance in endeavoring to frighten the horses because he does not like summer, or who have friends about to the driver selected. Liberalism means to choose an anti-Bourbon to every place wherever there are enough Republicans and Liberals to do it, The Liberals ought to help the Republicans in Republican counties. The REPUBLICAN is the best anti-Bourbon Republicans should support Liberals of Democratic antecedents in Democratic counties. The cry should be "anything to beat the Bourbons." The Old North State must second the Old Dominion's motion to break the Solid South. We To Every Republican in North Carolina appeal to our personal friends in North The remarks in yesterday's Republican | Carolina, who stood with us in .1880 for upon prohibitory legislation must not be Grant, to be foremost now in the work understood as advocacy of the prohibi- so dear to the heart of that great Patriot tion policy; they were simply intended and Leader-"the right of every man to to call attention to the extent to which cast a vote just as he pleases, and to have it counted just as it was east."

The Bourbon Democratic party of South Carolina, in their recently adopted platform start out by reaffirming the principles and declarations of the State platforms of 1876 and 1878; and close as follows:

13. In the State, justice and equality for all, to insure harmony and good will between the races. In the Union, no sectionalism in policy or feeling. An indissoluble Union of indestructible States. One flag, one country, one destiny.

We remember the declarations of the platforms of 1876 and 1878, and how they were carried out, especially in Edgefield and adjoining counties. The Bourbon rascalities of that period are too fresh yet When the status of the negro shall be in all minds to require recapitulation; and in view of the facts as history has recorded them, people will be slow lieve in the sincerity of the professions made in 1882 by the same men who, in former years, never missed an opportunity to deceive and mislead them.

> THE South Carolina Bourbons have suddenly discovered that Epopular education is the bulwark of free institutions," and we presume, therefore, that as soon as convenient they will abolish even the present skeleton system, in order that it may not interfere with their control of the State,

ANOTHER Republican party in Georgia, Meantime we would like to know how many recruits the new movement adds to the ranks of those who are engaged in fighting Bourbonism in that State.

THE STAR ROUTE TRIAL. Testimony of Harry M. Vaile, one of the

In the star-route trial yesterday, Mr. John B. Sleeman produced a power of attorney from John M. Peck to Miner, dated Japuary 10, 1878, and au-horizing Miner to sign has name and transact business for him at the Post-Office Department. Harry N. Valle, one of the defendants, was then called to the stand. Examined by Mr. Hine: Became acquainted with Miner in July 1878. Pirst had husiness with S. W. Dorsey in December, 1878; met John W. Dorsey first in December, 1878, and Rerdell also. Never paid or promised to pay Mr

John W. Dorsey first in December, 1878, and Rerdell also. Never paid or promised to pay Mr. Brady or any other public officer to influence their action. First acquired an interest in the routes in the last of August, 1878, and the agreement lasted until March or April, 1879. It was then agreed that there should be

A DIVISION OF THE BOUTES.

The value of each one was estimated, and the one who got the largest share paid the others. Witness took out 40 per cent, from the concern, Miner 30 per cent, and John W. Dorsey and Peck, through their representative, S. W. Dorsey, 30 per cent. The partnership agreement was submitted, Valle was the treasurer of the concern and John R. Miner secretary. When the 13-dies were divided witness had no interest in any other routes except those which he had drawn. He never met Peck in his life; never met John W. Dorsey from the time of the dissolution of partnership until this trial, and had never met stephen W. Dorsey but once since that time, and had not had any correspondence with them. He and S. W. Dorsey quarreled when they first met, and were never on friendly terms. Cross-examined by Mr. Merrick—When the contract of partnership was made did not know the bases exceeded the profice no man could know what the expenses would be. Did not go to those which the ever antedated, Winess did not inquire of his co-contracts on file. As he distrusted that some of his investments might be jeopardized by previously executed contracts, witness contracts was squed. It was sent to him for signature. Might have inquired about the subcontracts, and that time that it subcominates, but did not remember it now. Did not know at that time that it

WAS A LOSING RUSHNESS.

On August 29, 1878, while at Independence, Missouri, he received a dispatch from General Brady inquiring how many of the Miner. Peck, and Borsey routes he would see sisted. He said that he would see all of them started. He told Brady while here that if he would extend the time the winess would attend to putting on the service. The time was extended to September, and some of the routes were not started until November. The contractor might have been declared a filting contractor, and if so, he would have stopped it. He did not think anybody would have been fool chough to take them at the figures. On the Tongue River route after it was expedited

THE CONTRACTOR LOST MONEY.

Did not try to get it expedited, and not not know if any one else did. He tried to get Brady to discontinue the routes. Did not think he was a very fich men now, only a fair liver. He was questioned on other routes, amoue of which he said were looking ones, and some he did not recollect. Didn't remember any faits connected with the expedition of certain routes. If he had paid Mr. Heady any money he would have remembered it. Had no knowledge of jestificion belong got up, and was surprised at the number on file in the department. Had been interested in a mall contracts since that time. Had deast in fruencing and stock. The court them adjourned to Monday.

SENATE AND HOUSE. The Legislative, Executive, and Judicial

Bill Passed-The Other Bills. Mr. Cockrell, from the Military Committee, re-ported in the Senate on Friday, with amendmentthe House bill granting the right of way to the Fremont, Elkhorn, and Missouri Valley Railroad Company across the Niohran military reservation in Nebraska, and restoring portions of the reservation to the public domain. Passed.

Mr. McMillan called up the Senate bill for a bridge over the St. Croix River, between Calais, Maine, and St. Stephen's, New Brunswick.

The House resolution for the distribution of the urnals of the two houses to public and law libraries was passed.

Mr. Dawes presented the conference report on the bill for the sale of a part of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, and it was concurred in.

Mr. Windom, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported the House bill for the establishment of diplomatic relations with Persia and authorizing the appointment of a consul-general to that country, with an annual salary of $5,000, Passed.

for that country, with an infinite season present.

After much time had been consumed in efforts to secure unanimous consent for the consideration of measures, the Senate took up and passed the pension cases on the calendar not objected to. On motion of Mr. Plant, the House bill to refleve certain soldiers of the late war from the charge of pension cases on the calendar not objected to.

On motion of Mr. Platt, the House bill to relieve certain soldiers of the late war from the charge of desertion was passed as amended, to exclude from its benefits those who served less than twelve months or who intentionally deserted.

At 1 o'clock the tax-reduction bill was taken up (6 to 2), but was temporarily laid aside to enable Mr. Stater, who desired to leave the city, to call up the conference report upon the city, to call up the conference report upon the indian Creek orphan fund bill. On the latter motion Messry, Cameron of Wisconsin, Insalts, Saunders, and Van Wyck, with Davis of Illinois, voted aye with the Democrats. The principal point in controvery on the Indian bill was the item of Stot, 600 for the support of the loyal refugees of the tribe, which the Semale had voted to have charged against the Greek fund, and as to which the ron-ference reported that the money shall be paid by the United States directly, and that nothing in the act shall prevent the latter from being reliabling the bereafter for the same by the Greek indion. The report, after discussion, was adopted. The debate on the tax reduction bill was resumed.

Mr. Hale presented the conference report upon the mays appropriation bill, and explained that agreements had been reached upon all the items in dispute. The most important reform in the bill, as they believed, there were now too many may-yards. Personally the Senate conferees agreed with them in this, but were constrained, in view of the vote of the Senate, to report a formal disagreement. The result of the compromises upon the other items was as follows: The Senate amondment protecting the government from any liability to complete the annihilated profiles are as follows: Rearranged by restoring the commonders, 1s; capanins, 5; commonders, 2s; ensigns, 2s. This would leave the number of commodores, to be retained at ten, and it would be seen that the reduction was less in the upper than in the lower grades, A long discussion ensued lution to examine and report upon heavy ord-nance and projectiles.

After an executive session, extending from 4 o'clock until 5:25, the doors were reopened, and Mes-rs. Allson, Hale, and Bock were appointed conferees on the sundry civil bill.

The consideration of the tax reduction bill was resumed, the question being upon Mr Harris's amendment providing for a reduction of 10 per cent. after January 1, 1883, and an additional 10 per cent. after January 1, 1884, upon imported tuites.

Mr. Pandatan was a second of the per cent. Pendleton moved an executive session.

Mr. Pendleton moved an executive session. Mr. Rollins demanded the yeas and mays, when he motion was voted down by a strictly party ote—25 to 27.

At 6:19 Mr. Morgan rose, with the evident inention of making a lengthy speech on the bill.

Mr. Cockrell asked whether the Republican ide intended to force a vote by a night session.

Mr. Sherman and Mr. Mortill repised by overures for an agreement to terminate the debate to ay, next week, or even a month hence, so that a rote could be had upon the bill before the adournment size tile.

vote could be had upon the bill before the adjournment sinc dis.

Mr. Pendlebra (at 7 o'clock) called attention to the absence of a quorum, and moved to adjourn. The roll was catied, when turrly-six Senators responded, or three less that a quorum. A number of these stated that they were paired with members who had recently left the chamber, believing that no vote would be taken. Mr. Hour was named as among the absences.

Mr. Morgan said that he was in the habit of speaking to empty benches in the Senate, and desired to proceed with his remarks, but objection was made.

Several motions to adjourn were negatived, the

Several motions to adjourn were negatived, the last resulting 7 to 20, and the fact being obvious that a quorum could not be secured, Mr. Morrili reincantly consented to adjournment.
The Senate then at 7:15 adjourned until to-day. The Senate then at 7.15 adjourned until to-day.

House of Representatives.

In the House, on motion of Mr. Harris, the Senate bill authorizing the settling of the accounts of Edward K. Win-hip, acting assistant paymaster of the Navy, was passed.

Mr. Robeson presented the conference report upon the naval appropriation, bill, stating that an agreement had been reached on all points of dispute except that relative to the closing of the navy-yards.

Mr. Robeson explained the provisions of the dispute except that rolative to the closing of the may-yards.

Mr. Robeson explained the provisions of the bill as far as agreed upon. The first substantial difficulty met by the committee was the item abolishing the grade of commodore, which had been stricken out by the Senate. A compromise had been stricken out by the Senate. A compromise had been at last strived at by the adoption of a provision that hereafter only one-half of the vacancies in the various grades of the line of the Navy shall be filled by promotion until the number of officers shall have been reduced to the following points; Rear-admirals, 6; commodores, 10; captains, 45; commanders, 85; lieutemant-commanders, 74; lieutemanis, 250; masters, 75, and ensigns, 75.

captains, 45: commanders, 85: licutemant-commanders, 74: licutemanis, 250: masters, 75, and ensigns, 75.

The next substantial difference was in relation to the sale of old material and ships, the Senate having adopted a provision that the amount of such material must be reported to Congress. The compromise provided that old material should not be so reported, but that before any old ship is sold it shall be examined a dappeaused by a mival board and the facts reported to Congress. The clause giving discretion to the Secretary of the Navy to close certain may, yards was insisted upon by the House conferees, and was now the only mater it dispute. The bill as it passed the House has been reduced $250,000, and as it now stands it appropriates $175,000 less than the bill of last year.

[If the amendment authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to discontinue work at may-yards is adopted, all the navy-yards will be closed except one north of the Petomac, one south of the Petomac, and one on the Pacific coast. The Washington navy-yard will be used only for ordnance and no longer for construction; in short it will be abandoned.]

The report was agreed to and a new conference

nance and no longer for construction; in short it will be abandoned.]

The report was agreed to and a new conference ordered on the disagreement touching the navy-yards, consisting of Messrs. Robeson, Ketcham, and Atkins.

The conference report on the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill was submitted. The section transferring the records of the Surgeon General's office to the Adjutant-toureral's office was changed in phrasedogy, but in effect it remains as originally adopted. The transfer will be made. The fourin story of the new War, State, and Navy Departments building is to be assigned to the Surgeon-General's clerks and records under the direction of the Secretary of War. The House adopted the conference report.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the Senate amendments to the samply climb of War. The House adopted the constructor port.

The House then proceeded to the constiteration of the Senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill. Matters ran very smoothly are while, and the amendments were concurred in or nonconcurred in according to the recommendations of the Committee on Appropriations. The first stumbling block encountered was the clause relative to the National Board of Health, the Senate amendments increasing to the amount of $75,000 the appropriations made for that body. A long debate was continued in support of the amoundments, and they were finally nonconcurred in.

The remainder of the afternoon was consumed The remainder of the afternoon was consumed in the dull work of concurring or non-cancurring in the Fenate amendments, the proceedings only once or twice being diversified by noisy but brief and unimportant discussions upon some of the items. It was nearly 5 o'clock when the amendments were all disposed of and the bill was sent to the Senate.

The House disagreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill providing for printing the Agricultural Report for 1881, and a conference was ordered.

At 5:10 the House took a recess for half an hour, at the end of which time the legislative bill was signed by the Speaker.

Messrs. Hiscock, Butterworth, and Blackburn were appointed conferees on the study civil bill, and then (at 550) the House adjourand.
